BRILLIANT SWORDPLAY

Although the Germans, were always swordsmanship, I is in Italy that we prospe ning, better controlled play which we have learned to associate with the term fencing. It is from Italy that tencing as a refined art first spread to as it has over Europe, not from Spain, as it has n asserted by many writers

It is in the Italian rapier play of the late sixteenth century that we find the foundations of fearing in the modern sense of the word. The Italians—if we take their early books as evidence and the fact that their phraseology of fence was adopted by all Europewere the first to perceive, as soon as the prob-lem of armor breaking ceased to be the most important one in a fight, the superior capabilities for elegant slaughter possessed by the point as compared with the edge. They ac-cordingly reduced the breadth of their sword, modified the hilt portion thereof to admit of a readier thrust action and relegated the cut to quite a second ary position in their system. With this lighter weapon they devised in course of time that brilliant, cunning, catike play known as rapier fence.

The rapier was ultimately adopted verywhere by men of courtly habit,

No change or alteration of any sort should be made by a collector in his stamps. It was a custom some year ago among collectors to erase cancella tion marks from their stamps in order to make their stamps better. The e most common ways of altering stamps at the present time is to erase the word "specimen" from a stamp having this overprint. It cannot be done so that it will not be detected, and the stamp in the altered condition is worthless, while as a "specimen" it had some value. It has frequently happened that stamps, valuable in their original condition, have been made worthless by attempts to increase their value by alteration.—St. Nicholas.
